

Linking Feed Management to Whole Farm Nutrient Management

Questions that were not answered on the live webcast

I'm seeing high salt in manure as a growing problem at some of my facilities. Is any research being done on reducing salt in the dairy diet?

Joe Harrison: No specific research is being conducted at present that I am aware of determine a minimum amount of salt that can be tolerated. Most nutritionists realize the need to target for mineral requirements and limit excesses.